

The man of independent means is an even more important figure in a free society when he is not occupied with using his capital in the pursuit of material return but uses it in the support of aims which bring no material return.

— F.A. Hayek

Think about your money.

Not the part the IRS can't get.

Not the part the IRS will get.

But the part the IRS could get.

You earned your money in a free society. And like other thoughtful Americans, you'd gladly help preserve that freedom through charitable giving. But whether you can afford to give $10,000 or $10 million, giving can entail problems — administering your annual gifts, complying with tax laws, even setting up a private foundation and entrusting your aims to hired managers. Some think it isn't worth the headaches.

That's why we established DONORSTRUST. We'll help you manage your donations and maximize your tax deduction. Most important, when you establish a Donor-Advised Fund with DONORSTRUST, you'll know that your charitable gifts will help to expand and defend individual liberty, because that is our mission. Our only mission.

Think about charitable giving through DONORSTRUST. You won't make a dime. And that just might be the most important money you'll never earn.

Think about defending liberty.
